FORT LAUDERDALE Gift of the Sea

Wake up to dawn bursting across the sky. Watch palm trees swaying in the breeze and seagulls diving for an early catch. Come see Florida's lush foliage and brilliant flowers

... and then, pinch yourself to be sure it's YOU taking in all this beauty!

VACATION . . . a time to unwind, relax and get in tune with nature. Enjoy every sight and sound that Fort Lauderdale has to offer!

Come for the waterways, the sun, the surf, the sandy beaches. You've chosen the right spot! We've been dubbed "The Venice of America," yet we outdid Italy's scenic city ten to one with our abundance of waterways. You'll love watching the sailboats skimming the waves, the motor boats passing each other on the Intracoastal, the early fishermen winding their way downstream for the catch. There's big game fishing just off-shore in the Gulf Stream and fresh water fishing nearby in the Everglades. Boat rentals, from canoes to yachts, are readily available.

We're called the "Yachting Capital of the World," and sumptuous ocean-going yachts dot the marinas.

You can see the cruise ships leaving from Port Everglades. Don't miss the sight-seeing cruises that take you down the Intracoastal Waterway and the New River where you can focus your camera on the lagoons, inlets, palm-fringed islands and waterfront estates.

Come for swimming, scuba diving, water skiing or just to play in the waves. There are over six miles of public beaches. Warm southeast winds assure summer comfort year round.

For more family fun . . . picnic at nearby parks; go canoeing, or bicycling; visit Ocean World where talented porpoises and sea lions perform, and where you can pet them in a special play pool; take a tour to historic sites; see the lovely botanical displays.

"Landlubber's" sports activities are as much a way of life here as are water sports. Thanks to Chris Evert, our home-town champion, we're considered the "Tennis Capital of the World." There are countless tennis courts and over fifty beautiful golf courses. The Swimming Hall of Fame is located here. The World Champion

New York Yankees have their spring training camp here, and we are the home of the Fort Lauderdale Strikers, professional soccer team. And, day or night, you can place your bet at a pari-mutuel sport . . . thoroughbred racing, jai-alai, dog racing, harness racing.

Dining out is a delight! There are over 200 gourmet restaurants with varied menus from all over the world. You can find small informal places where simple food is served and you dine in beach-wear. Or you can seek out the show places and dress in all your finery to be wired and dined in elegance.

Souvenir seekers can discover the pleasure of window shopping in a tropical setting or in new enclosed malls open every evening. Exclusive shops abound. Browse or buy . . .

anything from antiques . . . to the latest fashions . . . to unique gifts for friends.

There are exciting things to do every day . . . every night! Visit an art museum . . . dance at a disco . . . see a Broadway play. In season, take in the symphony or the ballet. There's something wonderful for everyone!

Fort Lauderdale is located in the heart of the Tropical Coast. Our International Airport services all parts of the USA with major airlines. Car rentals are at your command and local buses cover all areas of interest.

Whether you seek the sand, the sun, the water, the fun, or simply come to relax and enjoy our tropical weather and natural beauty, there's no finer spot than Fort Lauderdale . . . Gift of the Sea . . . one of America's favorite Vacation Capitals!

Pastor - Reverend Patrick Kader

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

We are enclosing for you a wonderful opportunity to reach out to people in your congregation and your community.

Metropolitan Community Church - Dayton Parish in Dayton, Ohio was given an offer by a member of our congregation to publish and distribute a unique book, GAY/LESBIAN CHRISTIANS. Written by Gerald Wening, this book boldly and successfully answers some deep questions that Christians in the homophile community are struggling to deal with.

Questions like:

"Don't all Christian denominations hold the same views regarding the immorality of homosexual acts?"

"Is marriage a cure for homosexuality?"

or

"If a person has a free will, as Christianity teaches, then don't homosexuals have the free will to change into heterosexuals?"

Mr. Wening's book also addresses specific biblical questions such as:

"Isn't homosexuality condemned in the New Testament by Saint Paul in Romans 1:24-27?"

or

"Saint Paul says in two different places in the New Testament that homosexuals won't enter the Kingdom of God: I Corinthians 6:10 and I Timothy 1:10. Doesn't that prove that homosexuals are immoral?"

This publication, we feel, handles these questions and concerns with intelligence and sensitivity.

There are 28 issues that are dealt with in this book. So far, in our experience in distributing it among our own congregation, we have found a great need for books like GAY/LESBIAN CHRISTIANS. Some have gained clarification and answers to some tough, and at times, disturbing questions.

At the present time, there is a limited number of these books available. However, MCC-Dayton Parish has set aside a number of copies for distribution to other MCC Churches in the Fellowship. We are not automatically enclosing a copy because we would like your congregation or church leader to indicate to us a sincere desire to review this book.

As we indicated, a limited number of books are available but you can receive a copy to review and keep by returning to us the completed order blank on the following page.

Then, if you or your congregation feel, as we do, that additional copies would benefit your group and/or your community, you may order more copies for the price of $3.00 per copy. Our suggestion would be to offer them for sale in your bookstore or encourage benefactors to buy the copies for distribution to others. The $3.00 price per copy will allow us to print many more and cover the postage and handling costs.

The Biblical Theme of Male-Female Equality

Virginia R. Mollenkott, Ph.D.

JESUS' FEMINIST BEHAVIOR

Leonard Swidler's Women in Judaism (1976) and Sarah Pomeroy's Goddesses, Whores, Wives and Slaves (1975) demonstrate that the status of women in the first century was dreadfully low. For instance, because all women were assumed to be nymphomaniacs, women were kept secluded in their homes, often being locked inside when their husbands went out. Yet Jesus habitually traveled with women (Luke 8:1-3).

Talking with a woman — even his own wife — was considered degrading to men, especially in public. Yet Jesus talked freely with the Samaritan woman (John 4) and with other women who asked for help. And although women were considered too frivolous and untrustworthy to be witnesses in a court of law, Jesus commissioned women to be the first witnesses of the resurrection. The more we learn about sexism in Jesus' time, the more we realize that Jesus really was a feminist (that is, a believer in human equality).

THE EARLY CHURCH

From Acts 2 we learn that when certain Jews thought those who were speaking in tongues were drunkards, Peter explained that the prophecy of Joel 2:28-29 was being fulfilled. Since Joel said that both males and females would prophecy (preach), Peter was announcing that in the Christian church the Spirit of God would grant special gifts to God's people regardless of their sex.

We know from I Corinthians 11 that women did indeed pray and preach. We also know from I Corinthians 14 and from 1 Timothy 2 that conditions in certain local congregations led Paul to counsel women to learn in silence. We cannot be certain about what was happening in those congregations, but we do know from many other Biblical passages that Paul did not mean to say that women may never speak or have authority or take leadership roles in the church.

For example, in Romans 16 Paul sends his greetings to Phoebe, "a fellow-Christian who holds office in the congregation." He tells the Roman Christians to assist her in any way possible because she is a prostatis, a "presider over" the church. He speaks of Priscilla and her husband Aquilla as his "fellow-workers in Christ"; and he speaks of a woman named Junia as being "eminent among the apostles."

THE PRINCIPLE OF MUTUAL SUBMISSION

In order to keep the central focus on evangelism, the apostles had to accommodate somewhat to social conditions. So they told Christian slaves to be submissive to their masters and Christian wives to be submissive to their husbands. But they introduced the concept of full human personhood and mutual submission which (if obeyed) would have done away with slavery and male supremacy within one generation.

Ephesians 5:21 says "Be subject to one another out of reverence to Christ." If Christian slave masters had subjected themselves to their slaves and if Christian husbands had subjected themselves to their wives out of reverence to Christ, obviously there would have been no more slavery or male supremacy among Christians. To emphasize mutuality, Paul instructed husbands to give themselves up for their wives as Christ gave Christ's self up for the church, and to love their wives as they loved their own (male) bodies.

When Paul speaks of the husband as the head of the wife, the context indicates that he is speaking in terms of source. He apparently means that the submissive self-giving of the husband will be the source of the harmonious and grateful submission of the wife. Hence, mutual submission.

ONENESS IN THE SPIRIT

Within the Biblical doctrine of the church as the One Body of Christ, there is no different treatment of males and females. All are referred to as the sons of God; all are referred to as the Bride of Christ. All are instructed to give birth to the offspring of the Holy Spirit (Galatians 5:22-23). All are told to develop the spiritual gifts bestowed by the Spirit without regard for race or economic class (I Corinthians 12:13) or age or sex (Acts 2:16-18).

We are all in God and God is in us all (I John 5:20; Romans 8:9-11). God in a woman should not be subordinated to God in a man, or vice versa, except in the fluid, voluntary, and individualized submission to an authority earned by the responsible use of spiritual gifts. Each of us, male or female, will sometimes lead and sometimes follow, always seeking the guidance of a God who plays no favorites.

The "battle of the sexes" is nothing to laugh at. Its cause is disobedience to the will of God as revealed in the Bible. Unfortunately, many churches and synagogues have been guilty of following the cues of the secular culture instead of speaking the Biblical word of healing. Certainly many faith communities have encouraged men to be proud and dominant and women to be passive and irresponsible. Out of obedience to the Hebrew and Christian Scriptures, it is high time to call both women and men to mutuality and active spiritual pursuits.

The Bible teaches the full equality of males and females — in the home and in the church as well as in the general society — through mutual submission (concern, deference, and service; see, for example, Leviticus 19:18, Galatians 5:13, and Romans 12:10).

THE CREATION

The Genesis creation accounts show that both male and female were made in the image of God, and that both were given the mandate to fill and take responsibility for the rest of the earth (Genesis 1:26-28). Genesis 1 and 2 show humanity as the masterpiece of the creation. Genesis 1, using climactic order, emphasizes the chronology of creation, with the creation of Adam and Eve together on the sixth day as the zenith. Genesis 2, emphasizing relationship, makes the same point but in a different way. This account utilizes the "ring" technique, in which an author's strongest concern is made memorable by being placed in the first and final position. Thus Genesis 2 highlights the most important creation (the human race) by treating it both first and last: Adam is created first, then all the animals, and finally Eve.

To stress the uniqueness of human relating, Genesis 2 says that Adam viewed the females of all the animal species and found them wanting until he saw the human female. Woman is called the partner or helpmeet of man, using the Hebrew word ezer, which is used elsewhere for the help which God gives to human beings. There is no hint of subordination in either of the two creation accounts. There is only an emphasis on oneness and mutuality.

CREATION SPOILED BY SIN — AND THE NEW CREATION

Sin enters the human condition in Genesis 3. Only after Adam and Eve have substituted their will for God's will does the specter of male supremacy and female subordination enter the picture. Genesis 3:16 describes male-female relating under the law of sin and death.

But the Hebrew prophets cried out for justice, which would include justice for women. As Amos said, "What does Yahweh require of you, except to do justice, and love mercy, and walk humbly with your God?" And the Christian Gospel brings us Good News to set believers "free from the law of sin and death" (Romans 8:2). So the work of the twentieth-century faith-community is not to perpetuate the sinful results of the fall, but rather to preach the Good News of liberation from the law of sin and death. In the New Humanity, the sinful condition of male primacy is overthrown.

GOD AS UNLIMITED BY HUMAN GENDER

The Bible pictures each person of the Holy Trinity, the One Godhead, in both masculine and feminine terms. For instance, Deuteronomy 32 depicts God as a great mother eagle fluttering over her eaglets, and Isaiah says that God comforts people as a mother comforts her children. Jesus referred to God as a female householder finding her lost coin (Luke 15:8-10), to himself as a mother hen (Matthew 23:37) and to the Spirit as a woman giving birth (John 3:5-6).

Furthermore, the Christian Scriptures refer to Jesus as anthropos, human, rather than as aner, male. To suppress the ministry of women on the basis of Christ's maleness is to go against the emphasis of the whole Christian Scriptures on Christ as the new Adam (a Hebrew word including both male and female). Christ is thus depicted as the embodiment and regenerator of the entire human race.

GOD IN HUMAN GENDER

To be incarnated in a normal human body, God would have to take on human limitations, including the limitations of gender. Since nobody listened seriously to either women or slaves in first-century society, and since Jesus was coming to teach a whole new lifestyle, it is obvious that the incarnation would have to occur in a free male rather than a female or a slave. Had Jesus lived as a female or a slave, servitude would have been only the expected thing. It was essential that Jesus be a free member of the dominant sex in order to demonstrate the principle of self-giving, self-emptying love. Jesus voluntarily chose servanthood as an example to us all, male and female alike.
